THE TIMES DAILY MAGAZINE PAGE

Can Women Talk Over The Phone?

Contribution From the Sporting Editor Makes One Think That Women Do Not Know How To Address People Over the Telephone—Is the Most Exasperating Habit That of Saying "Who Is This?"

Now I that I depends upon what you mean that I see to it that their home work is prepared, that they spend a reasonable time in the afternoon or evening preparing their lessons for the next day, I answer in the afternoon or evening preparing their lessons for the next day, I answer in the afternoon or evening preparing their lessons and actually aid them to the answers of their arithmetic, and that sort of thing the answer would be most emphatically no. "Willie's father helps him with his lessons," confessed another parent to much better than I can; and Willie gets such good marks that he must be learning."

Now it happened that the two boys of these two mothers had been in my youngest sister's class last term, and I asked her about this helping with home work. A Contribution From the

over the telephone, Yet few of them ever star out in the right way. They have the most disturbing way of saying as a beginning of all con-"Who is this?" Instead of telling who THEY are.

The fellowing contribution was sent in by a sad and sickly sporting editor. But it is typical of almost any conversation carried on by women. Is there any defense to offer for such conduct? If so, we will publish it.

Why Sporting Editors Drink. ene Sporting Department. Sporting Editor and trained staff working diligently at 200 per cent overload. 'ime-Opening day of world's series. Telephone bell rings. Sporting Editor-"'Lo."

Voman's Voice-"Who is this?" S. E .- "Whodyawant?" W. V .- "I want to talk with the sport

E .- "Well, go ahead." W. V .- "Is this the sporting editor?"

E.- 'Yes. Whaddyn want?' V .- "Can you tell me if the world" series is being played today? E .- "Yes, between-V .- "Well. 'What teams are play ing?"

E.-"Boston Americans and Brook lyn Nationals, at-"

W. V.-"Well, I thought the Bostons were in the other lengue." E .- "They are, it is, and-"

W. V .- But now tell me where they will play?" E .- "The Boston Americans will play the Brooklyn Nationals in Boston in the first game-V .- "In Boston? That isn't fair. And there is more than one game?

Will they play another?"

E.-"Yes. Yes. Yes. There are-V .- "Is Stallings the manager of the Bostons?" 8. R .- "No, William Carrigan is manager. Stallings is-

W. V .- "Well, can you tell me who

S. E .- "No. I don't know, and I'll have V .- "Well, what time do they start

-"At 2 o'clock. GOOD-BYE."

THE CONDUCTOR.

Seen In The Shops

By THE SHOPPER.

THICK furred, pointed here and there with black, and of a beautiful deep orange red, is a scarf of fox for $15.

An original and striking fur set is of snowy white fox. Instead of the usual sil-whiteness, there are perky black ears to the scarf, and one dangling black paw to the muff, which is a huge ball affair. The price of the set is $115.

No one could ask for a more ideal drapery for evening dresses than the silver cloth interwoven with color selling at $1.85 in one of the shops. The blue and silver and orchid and silver-are particularly effective. The pink is extremely pale, but would look well over white or light blue.

Most of the stores are carrying two grades of wool velour, with little difference in price, but considerable in weight and wearing quality. There is one at $2.50, in a wide range of shades. That priced at $2 a yard is heavier and suitable for coats rather than suits or skirts. Both of these are fifty-four inches wide.

Wool poplin will be almost as popular as serge this winter, and that is saying a great deal. Almost every color known to the whims of fashion is included in an assortment at $1 a pard—forty inches wide.

Leather toys, painted and then treated so that they are waterproof, are the latest offering for making play hours happier. Amusing gruff lions, fanciful cats, and a score of other queer creatures are included in the series. The prices range from 15 cents on up to $1 and more.

Shepherd checks, of a light-weight quality wool and cotton mixture, are 50 cents a yard. With some bright trimming these would make excei-lent play dresses for the children.

A serge dress priced at $15 has the wanted long lines, emphasized by a number of box pleats. "The collar and cuffs are of white taffets, and there is a bit of gay embroidery on the blouse.

Telephone Main 5260 and ask for the Shopper if further information is desired regarding the shops offering these bargains.

Creeds.

As when at night a child is sent to bed
Who fears the boding darkness of the room
He sees from every nook and corner loom

Here hungry eyes of green and there of red.

And hears upon the stair a stealthy tread by him sweeps a witch's ridden broom,

But feels secure from beast and goblin doom
When he has drawn the covers round his head—

So men who fear the grave's im-pending night. And see lean shadows rising from the brink

the brink
That yawns to claim us from our latest breath.
Have drawn around them dreams of dreamed-of light
And life transcending life with which they think
To steel them when they reach the bank of death!

With Lessons?

by LAURA CLAWSON.

O I help my children with their lessons?" repeated one of the most efficient mothers I Absorbing Question Just Now. It is a very practical question many a household just now, and as it means a great deal to both pupils and means a great deal to both pupils and teacher I thought my inquiry more than justified.

This was her side of the story.

"The Smith boy," she said, referring to the boy of the mother who did help her children, does not get such good marks, but I think in reality he is the better student of the two.

Willie understands his arithmetic, and the doesn't mean to have me think that Willie understands his arithmetic, and he doesn't mean to have me think that he does it without assistance—he is fair and square about the fact that his father helps him. But I think the temptation with the parents who actually help their children every evening with their lessons for the next day is very great. They do not realize that they are doing the actual work themselves, but often they are.

ey are. I can detect this very quickly, and can detect this very quickly, and sometimes it leads to an embarrassing situation. I cannot accuse the child of cheating in his work—he tells me frankly that his father helped him—but it seems hardly fair to give him the marks for it which I would give if the work had been done without assistance.

Explain Hard Points.

I do not mean that the parents are to take no interest in the progress of children the children.

Explaining a hard point is a very different thing from actually doing the sum or writing the theme for them.

There is a middle ground—that of intelligent oversight, and a careful scanning of the monthly report card. Personally I think that the mother who sees that her child spends a reasonable time over a problem, and then if he does not get it, sees that he uniferstands the principle on which it is based and lets him so at it again with itis added knowledge is really helping the child more than a parent who sasists in every process. There is the danger of hurting as well as helping in too constant supervision of home work. too constant supervision of home wor (Copyright, 1916, by Laura Clawson.)

RECIPES

Three eggs, two cups sugar, two thirds cup butter, one cup sweet milk two teaspoons baking powder, three cups flour; beat thoroughly. This makes three nice layers. Filling for cream cake. One egg. one cup sugar, two-thirds cup sweet milk two tablespoons flour, and flavoring desired. First beat the eggs, add sugar, mix well, then add flour, mixing it thoroughtly; then put in milk and butter the size of an egg. Set on stove, stir constantly; when thick set off and flavor.

Gold and Silver Cake.

Gold part: One cup granulated augar. one-half cup butter, yolks three eggs: one-half cup sweet milk, one and a half cups flour, teaspoon baking powder. Silver part: One-half cup butter: one and a half cups granulated sugar (acant), one-half cup sweet milk, one teaspoon baking powder, whites of three eggs. Bake in separate layers. Beat ten minutes.

Crumb Cake.

One and one-half cups sugar, three cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, three-fourths cup butter; rub together. Save out one-half cup. To the remaining crumbs add one cup sweet milk and one egg. Put in cake the and sprinkle the salf cup of crumbs on top.

delivery of all patterns sent through this service. Not patterns can be ob-tained in person.

Should One Help Your Worldly Goods Should Now Why You Should Use Include an Insurance Policy

the Wharton School of Finance, Thinks That Marriage Should Be Made Safer For the Wife By the Addition of An Insurance Policy To the Marriage Certificate.

There Is No Less Risk In Running a Family Than In Any Other Business, and a Business Without Insurance Would Be Considered a Trifle Foolhardy, To Say the Least, Adds the Professor.

HE marriage certificate is incomplete.

dividuals have stricken the word obey" from the ceremony. Even the prelates of the churches, in conclave ssembled, feel the matter worthy of helr gravest attention.

But no one thought of that part o the service where the groom endowed the bride with all his worldly goods until Prof. Solomon S. Huebner, of the Wharton School of Finance, arose to point out what a misleading vow that is.

Why awear to endow a wife with all one's worldly goods and make no provision for her support in the event of her husband's untimely demise?

Frof. Huebner says that an insurance olicy should be attached firmly to each marriage certificate, in much the same way that a marine insurance certificate ecompanies a bill of exchange. In fact, he quotes authorities to prove that no insurance spells sheer insanity in the business world. Why should marriage be any less a risk than a business venture?

In short, why should a husband's re sponsibility end with his life?" "Until death do us part" does necessarily mean that the worldly goods stop com ing automatically if the husband should die before his wife.

Here is Professor Huebner's whole idea on the subject "The care of the family is a man's first and most important business. The family should be run on a sound business basis. It should be protected against needless bankruptcy. death or disability of the head of the business should not involve its impair-ment or dissolution any more than the Every corporation and firm represents capitalized earning capacity and good lized earning capacity and good Why then, when men and women will. Why then, when men and women are about to organize the business called a family, should there not be a capitalization in the form of a life insurance policy of the only real value and good will behind that business? I may add: Why it is not fully as reasonable to have a life insurance policy accompany a marriage certificate in the same sense that a marine insurance certificate invariably attaches to any bill of exchange? The voyage in the first instance is certainly much longer, on the average subject to much greater risk, and in case of wreck the loss is of infinitely greater consequence.

Merely Sound Business.

"Why not protect the value of one's life when one is so careful to insure buildings, goods, and ships, when certainly the former is so much more Sponge Cake.

Beat thoroughly four eggs, two cups granulated sugar, pinch of salf. Pour on a teacupful of boiling water and stir thoroughly. Add two cups flour with two teaspeons baking powder. Bake in moderate oven one-half hour.

THE combination idea alone, much of this season. The back extends a bit over the front shoulders to effect a yoke and here the fronts are gathered. The open neck is graced with a handsome collar and the shaped cuffs in two-tone effect are latest style.

A single button and loop ornament to indicate front closing, tells the value buttons have as

The pattern is cut in sizes 36

terial and 3/8 yard contrasting emphasizing the plain lines of this blouse, stamps it very

Prof. Solomon Huebner, of A HUSBAND'S OBLIGATIONS

"The family should be run on a sound business basis. "It should be protected against needless bankruptcy.

"Why is it not fully as reasonable to have a life insurance policy accompany a marriage certifictae in the same sense that a marine insurance certificate invariably attaches to any bill of exchange?

"In our propaganda for the spread of life insurance we should stop twaddling about the sentimental and drive home the significance of plain, ordinary, decent duty to family and

"Not only has the wife a right to personal protection, but her rights as regards life insufance are further increased by her interest in the children which are as much hers as they are her

"Family responsibility is not limited to the title 'when death do us part,' but extends beyond."

PROF. SOLOMON HUEBNER.

decent duty to family and community. The first is gush, the latter is common sense, which I feel the average Ameri-

sense, which I feel the average American can be me to appreciate.

"To emphasize the sentimental side of the transaction and to regard it as a gracious self-sacrificing thing seems to me an unwarranted coddling of the head of the family. That sort of an attitude usually places wife and children on the defensive and overlooks their rights. Our present system of logic should be turned around and the husband put on the defensive and his dependents on the offensive.

"I have long felt that the educational propagands for the spread of life insurance should emphasize woman's rights as well as her duty in the matter. Quoting my address before the Cincinnati convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters: 'Hhe should be taught that it is her husband's sacred duty to adequately pro-tect the family, if that is at all pos-sible, and that it is also her sacred duty to watch her husband in the mat-ter, to use her persuasive powers to get him to act, and if that will not avail to insist on actions as her right. Not only has she a right to personal pro-tection, but her rights as regards life insurance are further increased by her interest in the children, which are as much hers as they are her husband's.

Should Insist on Insurance.

"Family responsibility is not limited to the time when death de us part, but extends beyond; and it is to be hoped that women may soon understand sufficiently the relationship of life insur-ance to themselves to insist upon its purchase at the time when they are asked to enter into the most sacred of all partnerships."

Stories of Stories

Plots of Fiction Masterpieces By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

THE GIFT. By Max Muller.

THE GIFT. By Mux Matter.

ERMANY was at war with Denmark. Ten years earlier— in 1853—the Danes, through German connivance, had seized the Schleawig-Hoistein territory. And now there was hope of winning back this lost land.

In all the German cities there were in the German would make Schleawig-Hoistein free and that my boy would no longer sleep in a Danish grave, but in the land his fathers had owned. That land would one day be restored to us.

bureaus where charitable folk might leave gifts of money or clothing to help the suffering soldiers of the Fatherland. Here people brought such offerings as they could spare-and laid them upon the altar of patriotism, To one of these relief bureaus, on a bitter cold December day, came an old woman clad in rags. She asked in it was happy starvation. where the Schleswig-Holstein contributions were received. One of the clerks answered that i was. The old woman drew forth a tattered wallet and produced from it a handful of copper and small silver. Out of this she counted ten marks and piled the money on the table.

"From whom does this money come?" asked a clerk, notebook in hand.

"From me," replied the woman, going on with her slow counting.

She continued this process until her bagful of small coins was empty.

On the table in front of her she had placed ten piles of money, each pile containing 10 marks.

For the Fatherland.

One hundred marks! And the woman looked too poor to have contributed one-thousandth of the sum. The clerk, in curiosity, asked once more:
"From whom does this come?"

Ome?"
And again she made answer:
"From me."
Observing the surprise in his face, she went on, quickly:
"Don't be afraid to accept it. It is nonest money. It will not hurt the Cause."

The clerk assured her he did not doubt her honesty, but that he had merely been surprised at the generosity of the gift.
"It is in memory of my only son" said the old woman, very simply. "He was my support, and he kept me in comfort. Then came the war with the Danes, ten years ago, when Schleswitz. comfort. Then came the war with the Danes, ten years ago, when Schleswig-Holstein was threatened, and I sent him to fight for the Fatheriand. I have never been sorry I sent him, though he died on the field of battle." She paused a moment, then continued:
"The dreadful days followed; the

What Women Are Doing

EVA LEEWAH, daughter of a Chinese merchant in Bayonne, N. J., wants to present an aeroplane to the United States army.

Mrs. Susie McAllister, of Fort Gaines, Ga., is the only postmaster in the United States to have been elected to that office to 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2 yards 36-inch maby vote of the people.

One of the world's remarkable women is the Pandita Ramabai, a learned Hindoo scholar, whose institution for Christian education of Hindoo child widows rescued from horrible degradation and suffering has been for years the nucleus and heart of Muskii, a village of 2,000 child widows and orphan girls, mothered by her and her noble daughter, To obtain this pattern fill out the coupon and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin. Address Pattern Department, Washington Times, Munsey Building. One week is needed for the filling of pattern orders. If patterns do not come within that time, notify this office for adjustment. Manorambal.

Widows of the late Yuan Shi-kai, about twenty in number, recently removed their belongsings from the President's palace in Peking to his home at Changtchfu, in Southern China, where they intend to live permanently. It is said that thirty-five trains were required to transport the property.

dent's palace in Peking to his home at Changtchfu, in Southern China, where they intend to live permanently. It is said that thirty-five trains were required to transport the property.

Up to July 1, outside the munition plants, 638,000 women had entered industrial pursuits in England. These, with the 818,000 in munition plants, make a total of 1,187,000 now working for wages in Great Britsin.

"And what do the soldiers do on Sunday?" asked Tommy, after his father had finished reading his paper. "Well," said his father, "they take it rather easy on Sunday. In the morning there are services, but in the afternoon, as there are no drills, they can do pretty much as they please. A good many of them ait around and darn their socks and sew buttons on their shirts. If it isn't too hot, they wait until the

A Woman's Heroism.

"For ten years I have waited," "and every year I have put aside 10 marks as a Christmas present for my dead son. Here are the ten marks-his gift toward the rescue of his Fatherland from Danes. I have starved to do this, but woman'" muttered one by-

The Lungs Properly And Learn to Breathe

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG.

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG.

If you breathe properly, it is because you are one of the few who live properly, who have uncommon habits and who have an occupation that does not interfere with the fullest expansion of your lungs.

The number and infinite variety of impediments to breathing are recruited largely from the ungoverned habits of occupation, play, poise, and wearing apparel.

The prevalent and woeful want of muscular power, the absence of fine physical contour and of a perfect torse are traceable to many sources, particularly to the inability to swim, to faulty positions of the bonus and membranes inside the nose, huge tonsils, adenoids, round shoulders, other bony deformities, carelessness in posture when seated or walking, and faulty positions at work or play.

Buspenders or other garments suspended from the shoulders are a drag upon respiration and the lungs. These interfere greatly with the peaks and corners of the lungs. largely from the ungoverned habits of occupation, play, polse, and wearing apparel.

The prevalent and woeful want of muscular power, the absence of fine physical contour and of a perfect torso are traceable to many sources, particularly to the inability to swim, to faulty positions of the bones and membranes inside the nose, huge tonsils, adenoids, round shoulders, other bony deformities, carelessness in posture when seated or walking, and faulty positions at work or play.

Buspenders or other garments suspended from the shoulders are a drag upon respiration and the lungs. These interfere greatly with the peaks and corners of the lungs.

Necklaces or collars that are too tight obstruct the jugular vein as well as hinder the thorough expansion of the chest. Air vents and, consequently, complete vertilation, are often diminished and defective in desk workers, students, writers, clerks, typists and others who spend too many hours continuously in a slovenly ill-balanced posture.

Posture Most Important.

This asymmetry, as it is called, is er-roneously blamed upon "weak musobservation that it is less often a question of weak muscles than it is of

Marriage Vows

To the Editor of the Magazine Page: To the Editor of the Magazine Page:

"Obey" is not the only word in the marriage service that is obsolete and should in all honesty be abolished. How about that phrase: "With all my worldly goods I thee endow?" How many times is it almost farcical to pronounce it! Think of all the impoverished dukes and barons who have sworn to do that at the altar when they were obviously marrying their one chance to get their debts paid, and think of all the other instances, from dukes to thrifty cooks, where the only real possessor of worldly goods has been the woman and not the man.

where the only real possessor of worldly goods has been the woman and not the man.

As a matter of fact that oath pronounced at the altar has no backing in law. One can afford to be quite nonchalant about making it—for where is the power to enforce it? In European countries, up to recent times, it was the woman who had to sign pre-nuptial agreements, legal documents, to the effect that she would "endow" her matrimonial partner with all her "world ly goods." The man, in these instances, usually managed to crawl out of the thin end of the horn, he did! And yet, from time immemorial, he has promised before God and earthly witnesses to endow his future wife, with all his earthly goods." If it weren't almost profane it would be truly funny.

Ever since I have read of the recommendation of the Episcopal clergy to substitute "keep" for "obey" in order to make the promises for man and women the same I have wondered what they plan to do with that phrase about the worldly goods. As it stands now, only the man has to make such a promise—will they change that also so that only the man or only the woman or both will have to make a promise about the dis-the man or only the woman or both will have to make a promise about the dispensation of their earthly possessions? I'ntil they do. I fa'l to see that the marriage ceremony puts man and woman on the same plane. The only ceremony "Poor woman." muttered one bystander. "I hope she may not have thrown away her money upon a cause that will fail."

She caught the whispered words and answered in calm certainty:

"Have faith. Wickedness cannot forever triumph. Some day we shall begin free. And this very day I shall begin saving another 10 marks for liberty."

(Copyright, 1918.) that does, to my way of thinking, is the

Fair and Warmer WITH

and the waist all call for lines of sup-port.
Unless these matters are properly pro-vided for, and the distance betwen the worker and the bench or desk is close enough to allow the worker to sit erect and write, read or work, contracted lungs and an aborted breathing space as well as narrow chests and shortened shoulders will result.

Breathe Through Nose.

Breathe Through Nose.

Persons not given to swimming, dancing, tennis or other open-air athletics which impel deep and rapid breathing, must needs acquire force respiratory exercises by other measures. This is necessary to expand the lungs at their topmost points as well as to their bases.

When in the course of such events the chest is in easy and perfect motion a full supply of the available oxygen is taken in and the stale purple blood of the hitherto undisturbed nooks and corners of the lungs are ventilated and painted a new vermillion. The stagnated, unmoved gases left there tainted from last winter's indoor staleness are now driven into retreat, and are put to flight by active, fresh oxygen.

Vigorous inspiration suctions in the new air and forceful expiration expels the old, used gases and waste matter. The foul vapors are scattered to tne four winds, and the invigorating atmosphere with a minimum of impurities is gathered in by the hungry blood in the lungs.

The mouth is a canteen and a vertice.

gathered in by the hungry blood in the lungs.

The mouth is a canteen and a regimental larder not intended for air and breathing. Nature expects you to breathe via the great red way of the nostrils. The air as it approaches and penetrates the nose winds deviously and circuitously up hills and down valleys, and in and out of narrow, serpentine passages to be moistened and filtered free from germs and dirt until it is warmed and free of impurities. Then it is ready to leave the nose to enter the windpipe and to oxidize the lungs.

Evidently, the efficient, sound man saves his health and increases his earning power by breathing through his nose and "keeping his mouth shut."

AMUSEMENTS

Reserved Seats, Sc. 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, Opening of the Regular Dramatic Season, Klaw & Erlanger and George C. Tyler Present in a New Play. "THE HARP OF LIFE"

LAURETTE TAYLOR

By J. HARTLEY MANNERS.

Miss Taylor, after her two-year triumph in London, comes to Washington in a new role in which later she will make her respessance in New York.

Next Week-Seat Sale Thurs .- Wed. Sat. Mats.

Madge Kennedy AND THE NEW YORK COMPANY

B. F. KEITH'S EDWIN BELLE ARDEN STORY

"THE FOUR HUSBANDS COMPANY Musical Cornedy, Dugan & Raymond, Etc. Next-Jack Norworth. Order Now. BELASCO TONIGHT, 8:20 MATS, WED., THURS., 25e TO $1.

Original N. Y. Winter Garden Cast ROBINSON CRUSOE, JR." with AL JOLSON And Company of 200, Including Prise Beauty Chorus.

POLI'S Tonight hill 25c, 58c, 75c Mats. Tue., Thur., and Sat., 35c and Sta. The Dramatic Sensation of the Season THE GIRL WITHOUT A CHANCE A Soul-Stirring Episode. Next Week-While the City Sleeps

LOEW'S COLUMBIA Continuous. Morn., Aft., 10, 15 Cents. 16:3v s.m. to 11 p.m. Nights, 10, 15, 25 Cents. NOW PLAYING.

LENORE ULRICH

In "THE INTRIGUE" EXTRA-Charite Chaptin in The Pawnshes.

THE MIDNIGHT MAIDENS

Returns of the World's Series by in-nings read from stage, Next Week—Al Reeves DANCING

MISS CHAPPELEAR, Class Tuesday Evenings.
1312 Q ST. N. W. PHONE NORTH espe.

MRS. M. A. BROWN

All Latest Dances Taught. Class Saturday Even., 1210 G st. N. W. National Rifles Armory, G near 9th. Open Mon., Thurs., Sat. eves. Dancing 1:30 to 17 p. m. Band & Orchestra with solcist. PROF. & MRS. HARTLY PHONE N. 2184.

MILLER'S DANCES OF THE HOUR.
Individual and Private Instruction
Belasco Theater Bldg. M. 559 DAVISON'S Prof. & Mrs., 1329 M aw.
All dances taught correctly & guar. in few private lessons, any time. Class Tu. ev. N.684 GLOVER'S, 613 Ed. Classes reopen Sat. Sept. 23. Classes Tues., Sat. Priv. isseons any ar. 66c. Railroom for rent 55. Phone W. 1176. SUMMER RATES Private lessens, The open all summer Main 1988, Prof. & Mrs. Wyndham, Ets Uta

(SIZE MUST BE PUT ON COUPON)

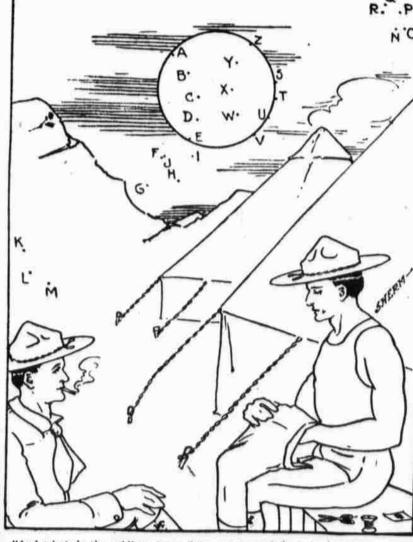

Times Pattern Service

THE TIMES PATTERN SERVICE

trimming.

October 9.

Name No. 992. Street and Number..... SIZE DESIRED.....City and State The Alphabetical Dots By CLIFFORD LEON SHERMAN.

sun goes down a bit and then some one is nearly always ready to suggest a game and as they are all good Americans the only things they need are a

(To complete the picture draw a straight line from the dot marked A to the dot marked B and so on through the siphabet.)